CCMR is dedicated to helping nations make integrated defense decisions and improve interagency and international coordination and cooperation. CCMR does this by addressing the civil-military challenges of combating terrorism; defense transformation and institution building; stability, security, transition, and reconstruction operations; and other security challenges.

CCMR Core Competencies
Addressing interagency and international coordination is at the heart of today’s civil-military challenges. The Center greatly enhances and supports other programs through its wide range of capabilities. CCMR core competencies include, but are not limited to:

- Democratic Civil-Military Relations
- Defense Reform/Institution Building
- Defense and Security Decision-Making
- Educational Support to Operational Commands
- Stability and Peacekeeping Operations
- Civil-Military Response to Terrorism
- Maritime Security
- Publication and Research in Civil-Military Relations

Based at the Naval Postgraduate School in Monterey, CA, the Center for Civil-Military Relations (CCMR) was established in 1994 to assist newly emerging democracies in addressing the civil-military challenges of the post-Cold War world. In the nearly two decades since its founding, CCMR has evolved to employ a full spectrum of Civil-Military related programs. Our courses, seminars, workshops, and exercises are individually crafted and executed by a global faculty of subject matter experts. Participants learn the latest methods and best practices, and gain additional experience from their colleagues through the highly interactive use of simulations, exercises, and discussion problems.

CCMR consists of programs known internationally for excellence in their respective fields, including Combating Terrorism Fellowship Program (CTFP); Defense Governance and Management Team (DMGT); Global Peace Operations Initiative (GPOI); Intelligence and Democracy; International Defense Acquisition Resource Management (IDARM); International Defense Transformation; Maritime Security Program, Prevention, Relief and Recovery (PR&R); Security Cooperation Studies and Exercises Program; as well as major regional programs.
