Executive Program in Core Pre-Deployment Training Modules - Training of Trainers (CPTM-ToT) (MASL # P179624 In-Residence; P319624 MET; P279624 Regional)

The Executive Program in Core Pre-Deployment Training Modules - Training of Trainers (CPTM) is a two-week (for In Resident version) Expanded International Military Education and Training (EIMET) approved program conducted every May and October at the Naval Postgraduate School in Monterey, California. This offering can be also exported as MTT. The program has been structured to qualify national instructors to design, develop and teach courses covering UN required knowledge for peacekeepers deploying to UN Missions.

The main themes covered include the following:

- Review of the 2013 UN Training Needs Assessment and CPTM project;
- Expose of the content of the CPTM 1-3 and CPTM course design for selected audiences;
- Examination of the Specialized Training Modules (STMs) used in course design;
- Methods of instruction used in Peacekeeping Training;
- Design and delivery of case studies and learning activities;
- Introduction to Group Exercise Material based on the UN Carana Model;
- Evaluation methodologies;
- Explanation of UN Reference Materials.

The course is designed for senior (O-5 and above) military officers and their civilian counterparts from legislatures, government ministries, and non-governmental organizations, that have responsibility for the planning, preparation, Training, education and deployment of personnel to UN Peacekeeping Missions. Participants will have the opportunity to meet and work with leaders from around the world on issues of UN Peacekeeping Education and Training.

The curriculum has a strong problem-solving focus and draws examples from the experiences of many different UN Missions. The curriculum is based on and fully consistent with UN doctrine, policy and guidelines for the CPTMs and STMs.

Prospective participants and SAOs should be aware of the following administrative issues:

Participants: In order to facilitate interaction between students and faculty and foster an appropriate student mix, class size is limited to 25 participants. Potential students should be O-5 or above (or the civilian equivalent); however, recognizing that different countries structure their militaries differently, CCMR will consider officers at the O-4 level on a case by case basis. Ideally, participants should hold positions of responsibility concerning strategic planning and civil-military relations issues (e.g., security policy and national strategy formulation; Peacekeeping education and training; supporting the preparation of units for operational deployment to UN Missions; non-governmental organizations (NGOs); political party officials; academics; and other interested personnel). Countries are encouraged to nominate more than one participant depending on total class size.

Accommodations: Participants are normally housed on campus at the Naval Postgraduate School Bachelor Officer Quarters (BOQ) for all CCMR's In Resident courses. These rooms are near the classrooms where the course is conducted. The rooms include a private bath, television, telephone, internet access, and a small refrigerator and microwave oven. Accompanying spouses and children may also stay in the BOQ for a small additional charge. Medical care is available on an emergency basis only.

Language: While there is no formal TOEFL requirement, ODC/SAOs and participants should be aware that the course is conducted entirely in English and that the program strongly emphasizes group discussion. The ECL requirement is 80.

Cost: The cost of the In Resident version of this course is approximately USD 4,800 for IMET and USD $5,300 for FMS per student. This fee does not include transportation to or from Monterey or the student's living expenses while in Monterey. Please contact us for a cost estimate of MTT version of this offering.
