MEETING MINUTES FROM BOARD OF ADVISORS, NWC SUB-COMMITTEE MEETING ON APRIL 4-5, 2019

Board of Advisors Member Attendees: Honorable Christopher Jehn (Chairman, NWC Subcommittee); Mr. David Menzen (OPNAV N12 representing the N1); LtGen (ret) Willie Williams (NWC Subcommittee Member); Dr. David Chu (NWC Subcommittee Member); Dr. Craig College (NWC Subcommittee Member); Dr. Joseph McCarthy (NWC Subcommittee Member); Dr. Katherine McGrady (NPS/NWC Parent Board Member); Dr. Elizabeth Pate-Cornell via telephone (NPS/NWC Parent Board Member); Mr. Steve Deal (Special Assistant to the Under Secretary of the Navy); Ms. Jaye Panza, Designated Federal Officer (DFO); and Dr. Thomas Gibbons, Alternate DFO.

NWC Attendees: RADM Jeffrey Harley; Dr. Lewis Duncan.

Background: RADM Harley, Naval War College President, and Dr. Lewis Duncan, Provost, met with the Naval Postgraduate School-Naval War College Board of Advisors (BOA), Naval War College (NWC) Subcommittee on Thursday, April 4. Following a presentation by Mr. Deal about the Navy’s Education for Seapower (E4S) Study, RADM Harley and Provost Duncan provided board members with an update briefing on the College. Subsequently, the BOA members ate lunch with students, received their annual ethics brief from LCDR Dennis Westman, JAGC, USN (SJA), participated in a round-table discussion with RADM Harley and Provost Duncan, and attended a reception at RADM Harley’s quarters.

The NWC Sub-Committee reconvened on Friday morning, April 5, to continue the board meeting. LtGen (ret) Williams and Dr. McGrady did not attend this session. Dr. Elizabeth Pate-Cornell participated via phonecon.

Discussion:

Chairman Jehn welcomed the BOA members, RADM Harley, and Provost Duncan.

Chairman Jehn requested that RADM Harley and Provost Duncan provide an information paper on the health of the College’s faculty with different categories and metrics including racial, ethnic, and gender diversity. Dr. Chu asked about intellectual diversity among the faculty members. Jehn also requested that meetings with faculty members be a regular agenda item for all future meetings of the BoA.

Chairman Jehn commented that the E4S briefing provided many interesting ideas but there was a lot of work still to be done. In particular, the BoA members believe the new position of Chief Learning Officer should be responsible for a number of key functions necessary to implement the E4S recommendations. Chief among these will be initiatives to change Navy culture to better value education within the Navy. These and other responsibilities of the CLO will require resources including staff. The BoA believes it cannot overemphasize the importance of the CLO’s role and that the CLO receive requisite support from Navy leadership. RADM Harley explained the Navy’s goal to “value education” so that the institution does not become minimalized by competing budget constraints in the future.

The President also noted that E4S was a zero-sum effort in terms of personnel. Several E4S areas, including the Navy Community College concept, would be challenging because of competing demands for resources. Moreover, until the Navy achieves its goal of valuing education and sees its importance to the fleet, it simply will not be a priority.

Chairman Jehn agreed and commented that the fundamental problem is that the Navy does not reward Sailors who work to improve their education. It will require a sea change in order to fundamentally alter the Navy’s culture concerning education. He requested that the College continue to track the quality of USN students in the NWC senior class.

RADM Harley mentioned that there needs to be a forcing function in place to compel officers to seek out educational opportunities, especially JPME, offered at the PME schools. He said that receiving resident graduate education prior to assuming O6 Major Command is a positive step, although he believes Year Group 15 is too distant to have meaning. RADM Harley also supports a selection board across the Navy to select officers for resident JPME education rather than having the communities select their officers.

Dr. Chu told the group the promotion and selection board precepts need to be written to make sure that they are specific enough to be understood and subsequently enforced. RADM Harley reiterated the value of the Navy University system because within E4S the Naval War College is the only institution with a Joint voice.

RADM Harley also highlighted that there were currently four vacancies on the NWC BOA subcommittee. Efforts to get additional BOA members nominated have been unsuccessful because the responsible offices are not accepting the nominations. He solicited BOA members’ support in getting vacancies filled.

RADM Harley told the group that the Joint Forces Staff College would have a 75% reduction in billets soon and that the Navy would see an imminent reduction in the number of JPME Phase II quotas there.

One of the BOA members reported that students during lunch had told him to expect a backlash from the other Services because the Navy was not providing Navy students to their institutions. If so, this would affect the new E4S initiatives. Additionally, the lack of Navy students reduces the joint acculturation at those institutions, in turn risking their accreditation.
RADM Harley expressed his thanks to the BOA members for their support for an initiative to keep the President at the College for more than 1-2 years. He believed that the leadership stability has a positive impact on the institution, the faculty, and the students.

Moreover, he requested BOA support an initiative to require future Presidents to be a resident graduate of one of the PME schools (preferably the Naval War College). RADM Harley felt that his experience as a resident student at the NWC was invaluable to him and to the institution.

Chairman Jehn asked the other BOA members if they had anything to add to the discussion.

Dr. McCarthy told the group that he was interested in determining the metrics for success. What do we look for in our NWC graduates at graduation? Additionally, he explained that he had developed a flow chart for faculty planning at Harvard to track academic faculty members throughout their careers.

Dr. College asked about the value of adult education to the Navy.

Chairman Jehn discussed the process and timeline used to select the Navy’s new Chief Learning Officer (CLO). He also appreciated the E4S presentation and expressed that he and the other BOA members will be glad to assist with the E4S implementation. Jehn highlighted that funding at NWC seems to remain a challenge and that the Navy could enhance the E4S initiatives by continuing to promote the health and stability of the three flagship institutions. Additionally, he asked the board members, RADM Harley, and Provost Duncan what the board could change to contribute better in the future.

The Board Chairman asked if there were any additional comments from the members or the public. There were no additional comments and the DFO adjourned the meeting at 10:30 AM.

The next meeting of the NWC Subcommittee will be held on October 16, 2019 in Arlington, VA.
